

Overland Race Management Privacy Policy

Overland Race Management services provide course design, race directing, aid, medical aid, HAM radio support, timing/results, and web production of all events. ORM is staffed by experienced distance runners, multi-stage athletes, journalists, and videographers.

Our experience is in managing events to raise funds for public and private entities focusing primarily on trail running endurance events.

As part of managing races and events we collect participant information as part of the event registration process, such as name, contact information, gender, age, and so on. This information may be used to provide event information to our participants through email as well as to use some of the information in the Race Timing system.

Overland Race Management takes privacy very seriously.

- Overland Race Management does not data mine.
- Overland Race Management does not sell or give user information or your content to anyone for any reason.

Overland Race Management uses a third party sales and registration application to support our races and events. Specifics of their privacy policy can be found at the bottom of our event registration pages. In summary, our third party sales and registration provider has the following policy:

- They do not data mine.
- They do not sell or give user information to anyone beyond Overland Race Management for any reason (except in the course of a sales transaction).
- They do not display ads.
- They do not send any sales or advertising information to you, except the sales receipt as part of an event sale.

Contacting Overland Race Management

If you have any questions about our Privacy Policy, you can contact us at carroll@overlandracing.com

Overland Race Management